GLEANINGS

BY JON ZARIS

The Gleaner has received several epistles this week anent two of the Beegebeeyoos' most glorious and handsome men.

We refer, of course, to the renowned James Carpenter and Arthur Swartfager.

We quote one letter: "There still seems to be considerable controversy among the B. U. Femmes as to which is the most handsome. Arthur Swartfager or James Carpenter. Some hail Arthur as the ideal, while others claim Jimmie as the Apollo divine."

We had no idea that things were so serious.

We knew, of course, that several sticks and stones had been cast at Arthur, but we were heretofore unaware that it was hailing on him, and we heeded the fact that Jimmie was pretty, but we are surprised to find that someone is actually claiming him.

Now, the Gleaner is willing to pass the hailing part as a slip of the weather man, but when it comes to claiming Jimmie, we must call a mass meeting.

We should like to know just who is claiming him, if they are mentally and financially responsible, and if they have a valid title.

And then, too, we should inquire if Jimmie himself has had a hand in the matter.

Another note says in part: "Neither of the two seems to be particularly affected by flattery, but we have noticed a bit of jovial rivalry. It is hoped that real enmity will not develop, because it might bring serious consequences that would spoil two pretty faces and that would be too bad."

Yes, dear correspondent, that would be "too bad."

Because we really need those "too pretty faces" about.

But in fairness to the Apollos we should renig the flattery, because very few people are smart enough to flatter those boys, and if they have been affected, we are sure that it is for the better.

If it comes to the worse, and anything is done about the matter—we mean of course, like a beauty contest or blindfold test or anything—the Gleaner intends to use his waning influence to the immortalization of Jimmie.

The reason for our choice being Jimmie's wavy hair. We wish we had curly hair. It would make our weekly visit to the barber shop such a real pleasure.

And speaking of pleasure, we must announce the acquisition of a new pleasurable activity on the part of Joe Lafferty.

Joe has been earnestly endeavoring to learn to smoke during the past week, so that he may smoke realistically in "Dulcy," in which he appears tonight.

After learning to smoke for his role, he will probably like it so well that he will continue to smoke long after the play is forgotten.

Which emulates the pitfalls which constantly beset the path of young collegians.

Woe is me.

And everybody might shout "Whoa" to Denny Lee Redd too.

Dennie just burst into our cubicle

HOLD CONTEST FOR VERSATILE B. U. STUDENTS

"Towers" Staff Have Ballotting To Choose Bachelor Of Ugliness

Denny Lee Redd Leading As Most Versatile Boy

The most versatile boy and to be chosen in a contest staged by the staff of the "Towers," the University Annual, and a Bachelor of Ugliness is also to be named by the same votes.

Denny Lee Redd with 3,600 points and Justin Green with 400 points were leading the field Tuesday afternoon among the male candidates in the versatile race, and Berenice Phillips and Ruth Crane had amassed a count of 2,000 and 1,600 respectively in the Tuesday count.

Gilmore Epley is leading the Bachelor of Ugliness race with 1,900 points in Tuesday's count, and Joe Cole is running a good second with 600 points.

The contest is being promoted by the staff as a further inducement for subscribers of the annual to pay their first subscription installment. The first installment is one dollar, and with every dollar paid, one hundred votes may be cast for a candidate in each of the three classifications.

The Towers Staff has announced that over two hundred and fifty copies of the annual have been subscribed for, and by Wednesday afternoon almost half of the first installments had been received.

MUSIC CLUB HERE PRESENTED PLAY, THE ROBIN WOMAN

Unusual Musical Program Given At College Heights

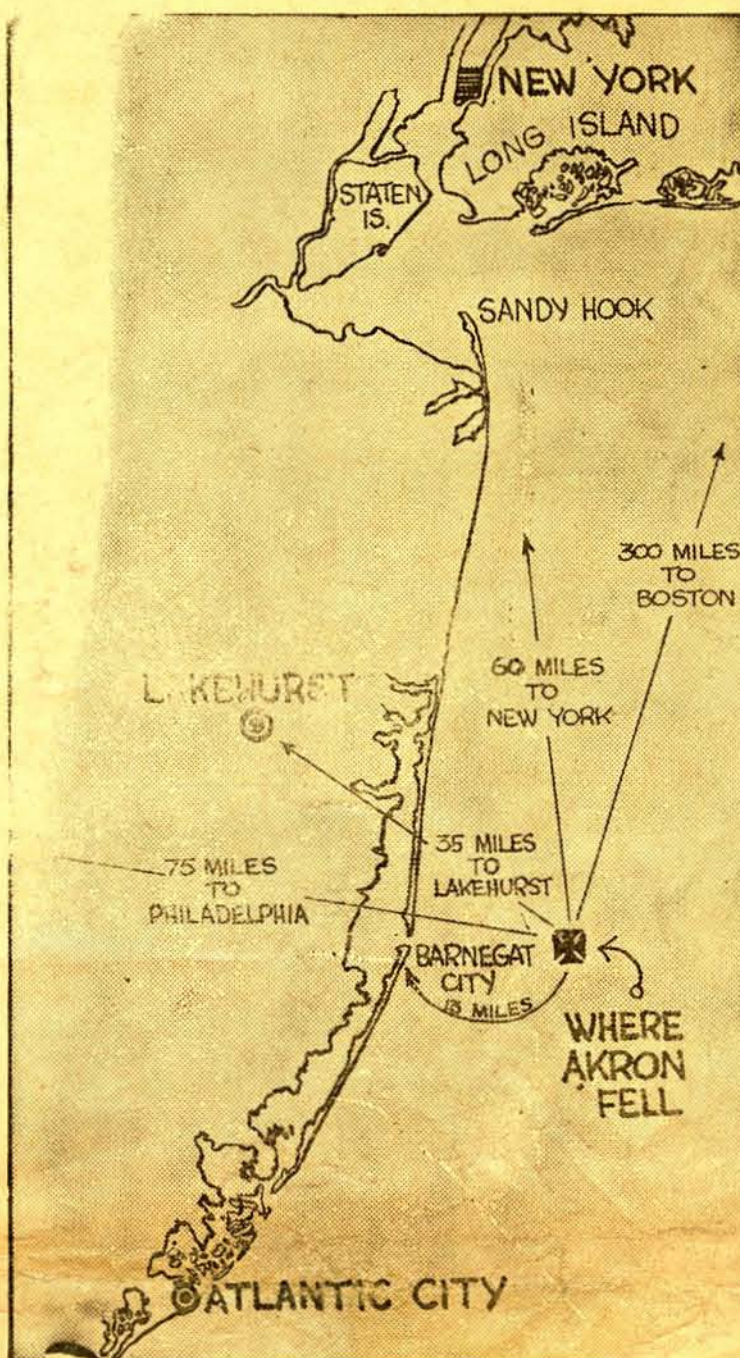

"The Robin Woman" (Shanewis) by Charles Wakefield Cadman, was presented at VanMeter Hall last Friday evening by the Women's Music Club of Bowling Green. The one act opera was an epochal music event for Bowling Green, and furnished an excellent vehicle for the assembled voices.

The opera is one of Cadman's outstanding works, and the motif is, of course, one of Indian lore. The theme of the story revolved around the head of a modern Indian maiden, and is not very unlike Cadman's other Indian melodious epics.

The part of Shanewis was sung by Miss Agnes Hampton, who gave a beautiful interpretation of the young maiden who loved, not wisely, but too well. Miss Hampton was supported by Mrs. Joe Dienes, Mrs. Clark Madison, Dr. J. B. Helm, and Dr. Hoy Newman, assisted by Mrs. Carl D. Herdman as reader and Mrs. Nell Dickey Brown, pianist, and the chorus. Mrs. W. H. Raymond directed the opera.

The program offered another excellent opportunity to the students of Bowling Green to hear famous works, and the presentation was sponsored to promote the musical appreciation of the students and residents of the city.

WHERE GIANT AKRON WENT DOWN

This map shows the location of Barnegat City, N. J., between New York City and Atlantic City, where the U. S. S. Akron fell into the sea with 76 officers and men aboard while on a test cruise from her base at Lakehurst, N. J. The great airship came down off the Barnegat lightship, 13 miles off the coast, where first survivors were picked up by the German tanker Phoebe, en route from New York to Tampico.

DIAMOND SET OUT OF RING IS LOST BY TEACHER HERE

Seeing a $450 diamond set fall from a ring on her finger and then being unable to find the valuable gem, is the unusual experience of Miss Wanda Ellis, member of the Physical Education Department faculty at Western Teachers College.

Miss Ellis lost the stone while in the auditorium of the school attending chapel exercises. She started a search, which though resulting in heroic measures, has been fruitless.

A few seconds after the stone dropped from the ring, the chapel exercises were completed and the crowd filed from the room. Miss Ellis did not hear the gem fall to the floor and is of the opinion it hung in the clothing of some one near her and was unknowingly carried to some other place.

WESTERN AND B. U. TO HAVE SUMMER TERMS THIS YEAR

Both Western Teachers College and the Bowling Green Business University will have their full 10 weeks summer school as usual, the Students' Weekly was advised yesterday the sessions being divided in two five week terms with classes meeting six days a week.

Sometime ago it was thought at Western that the summer school might be shortened or eliminated as the result of the financial situation but it has been decided to conduct the school in accordance with the best interests of the students served.

The Business University has never considered curtailing the summer school, it is stated.

The extra terms at both institutions will begin on June 5.

Both colleges today reported satisfactory enrollments for the "short" spring term, which is opening this week.

SECOND SHOWING FRIDAY

State Street Methodist Church To Be Scene Of Amateur Play

The opening presentation of the Bowling Green Players' Guild will be staged tonight and Friday night at the State Street Methodist Church with Miss Elizabeth Rodes playing in the title role of the hilarious comedy, "Dulcy."

Dulcy is a bride, and her name is Smith. She has a husband and in her eager determination to aid him in his business matters she plans a week-end party at which she plans to entertain his millionaire associate.

Hilarious Tragedies Result
The week-end guests are an ill-assorted group, uncongenial and having nothing in common, such as only a Dulcinea could gather about her. Their brief association becomes a continuous series of hilarious tragedies, chief among which is the

STUDENTS STAGE MOCK TRIAL FOR CONSPIRATORS

Kangaroo Court Held As Forerunner to Coreco—Big Four Debate

A mock Grand Jury met at the Business University yesterday afternoon to investigate a supposed conspiracy to corrupt the annual Coreco-Big Four Debate which is to be held April 24.

The supposed conspiracy is a fabled attempt to obtain the valuable trophy to be given the annual winners of the oral affray between the two societies. The investigation will terminate with the returning of criminal bills against several criminal offenders, and the findings of the mock Grand Jury will be returned to the proper court.

Mr. J. Murray Hill will preside over the Kangaroo Court. He will be ably assisted by S. E. Jennings as clerk, and will deliberate the prosecution of Prosecuting Attorney Justin Greene.

The Grand Jury met at the instance of Sheriff Troy Stewart who rounded up the culprits and gathered the bulk of the allegedly damaging evidence against the defendants.

No official statement is obtainable at this time anent the identity of the perpetrators of the nefarious plot to thus overthrow justice, but an official bulletin is expected soon.

Sheriff Stewart says that his constables are on the right track and that several important developments are in the offing. Several arrests are expected within the next week.

Quick work on the part of the authorities prevented the absolute corruption of the Universities most cherished institute of Justice, the debating judge.

Superstition, Not Religion

The Martin county, Ky., grand jury Monday investigated the strange religious rites which resulted in the slaying of Mrs. Lucinda Mills by her son, John Mills, who claims he was ordered to do so from above, and returned a true bill today.

The trial of the man for matricide will attract much attention at the little town of Inez, which has been fortunate in never having witnessed a murder trial. It is the irony of fate that such a trial, resulting from religious frenzy, would be held in Inez.

If Mrs. Mills can look down now and see her son on trial for his life for deliberately taking hers and could talk to him, her message would be interesting. We fancy it would be "forgive him for he knew not what he did." How differently is religion interpreted. The One who gave Christianity to us taught no such religion as that practiced by John Mills and his cult.

Real religions is a religion of gentleness, not of violence, a religion of love and not of murder. But our distorted minds and superstitious natures play strange tricks upon us and how easy it is to forget the great principles the Galilean laid down in seeking the supernatural and the unbelievable. John Mills spoke in the "unknown tongue," while the founder of Christianity spoke so a little child could understand Him. And John Mills, in his superstitious mind, did exactly opposite what the One he perhaps sought to follow said do, and probably believed he was doing right.

and informed us that Miss Tillie Easton has been ill for several days, and requested a personal in our sheet to that effect.

Tillie, so Denny says, is suffering with a stiff neck.

We hardly think that Denny would refer to himself as a "stiff neck," so we suppose that Tillie must be suffering with a stiff neck.

Denny certainly is a versatile chap.

And so is Check Travelstead.

Check is continually bothered with the noise that emanate from the many vehicles that park behind his house on moonlight nights. The giggling of the girls keep him awake.

So he takes his trumpet and blows "taps" every night at ten-thirty as a curfew warning to all that might hear.

Check says it works.

We noticed the name of Chiles Thompson Pollard on the program for "Dulcy," and made immediate investigation as to the owner thereof.

We found that Chiles Thompson Pollard is really Tom Pollard done up in the original package.

EASTER DANCE IS SLATED APRIL 14 AT LOCAL ARMORY

Alphonso Trent And Victor Orchestra To Furnish Music

Alphonso Trent and his Victor Orchestra has been engaged to play for the Annual Easter Hop next Friday evening, April 14, at the Armory.

Trent has one of the outstanding colored bands in the country, and his music is known from coast to coast as the ace of syncopated perfection.

Besides his prolific recording for the Victor company, Trent has gained wide acclaim through his broadcasting over WLW, WAHS, WFAA, WBAP, and a host of other nationally known stations. Trent has also made records for Brunswick and other phonographic reproducers. The band has just finished playing for the Baker chain of hotels in the southwest, and for the Greystone and other ball-room chains.

This fourteen piece band plays in unique uniforms, and the leader and the excellent vocal trio furnish very novel acts.

The dance, which will start at ten o'clock and will continue until three the next morning, will open the spring festival season in Bowling Green for student society, and the Trent bandsters will probably weave the best musical background of any travelling band that has played here this year. One of the largest crowds of the year is expected, and many out-of-town guests are coming.

GROUP GARDEN TO BE SPONSORED BY B. U. FACULTY

Several members of the Business Faculty, under the leadership of Mr. Steed, are endeavoring to promote a community garden in which may be raised a large amount of vegetables to be conserved for winter use.

The management of the University has offered a section of the University for the project, which will be watched with a great deal of interest.

The instructors and participants will pro-rate the initial expense of the enterprise, and will divide the harvest in the same manner.

The example, if proven to be of worth, may form the basis for many such gardens in the future.

TENNESSEE CLUB TO HAVE PICNIC FRIDAY

The Tennessee Club of the Business University is to stage a weiner roast at Beech Bend Friday night at seven o'clock.

Arrangements have been made for transportation, and a large truck caravan will leave the University campus promptly at seven. Beside a menu of frankfurters and many sideline delicacies, a very entertaining program has been arranged for all.

There will be dancing and other diversions after the program and reservations are still open for a few.

COACH SHOWS HOW 100 YARD SPRINT SHOULD BE DONE

Leavell Does 100 in 9.7 Seconds, According To Timer At Western

Coach Charles G. Leavell, of the Western Teachers College track team, demonstrated to his pupils recently just what is proper in the 100 yard dash when he covered the favorite sprinting distance in 9.7 seconds during time trials held in the workout period.

McCormack and Keeling were the best student sprinters.

In the 220 yard run Keeling made the best time with 27.2 seconds and Jewell was a close second with 28 seconds. McCormack again made the best coverage of the 440 race, running the distance in 54.2 seconds. Coach Leavell came second with 55 seconds required and Minard was third with 57 seconds.

The 880 yard go was led by Willmouth with 2 minutes and 19 seconds. Robinson stepped this distance in 2 minutes and 21 seconds, Sylvester required 2 minutes and 25.4 seconds and Leckey took 2 minutes and 26 seconds.

In the mile run, Brownfield was best with 5 minutes and 9.5 seconds required.

deplorable plight into which she hurls her husband.

She insults her husband's associate, with whom he is trying to put through a merger, and haphazardly throws wrenches and hammers into every delicate piece of machinery with which she can possibly come into contact.

Through all of her blunders, however, Dulcy remains a delicious child, and of course the surprise climaxes dispurse the clouds and the final curtain leaves the cast in smiles.

Miss Rodas is admirably supported by Joe Lafferty, who plays Mr. Forbes, the capitalist, and by Mrs. Malcolm Hawkes, who plays the role of Mrs. Forbes.

Mr. Lafferty and Mrs. Hawkes will give a well wrought portrait of the turbulence which may creep into any happy romance, and their work will most certainly be one of the highlights of the show.

The romantic strain is furnished by Hildegard Massey, as Forbes' daughter, who is being sought by three men. And of course, Dulcy invites all three to the party. Buddy Garrison and Charlie Gadd are cast as two young business men who are pursuing the young Angela Chiles Thompson Pollard is cast as a supposed millionaire financier and dilettante whom Dulcy provides to the further hinderance of her husband's plans.

Mr. Pollard is given ample opportunity for his pianistic talents and his delicate character work approaches professional finesse.

The Guild members will serve coffee and cakes between the second and third acts to all guests.

STUDENTS FROM MANY COLLEGES STUDY AT B. U.

132 Students At B. U. Have Attended Other Universities

Ninety different colleges and Universities in all parts of the United States are represented by the students of the Business University.

This fact was ascertained when the President of the University, Mr. J. L. Harman, called for an assemblage of all students who had attended other accredited institutions of higher learning. 132 students answered the call which was for the purpose of getting a group picture for this year's edition of "The Towers," the B. U. Annual.

Among the ninety colleges which had been previously attended by the 132 students are Kentucky University, Ohio State, West Virginia State, Minnesota University, Purdue, Vanderbilt, "Ole Miss," Columbia University, University of Indiana, Miami, Baylor University, Duke, Alfred, Rutgers, Missouri, Southern California, Cumberland, Tennessee, and Simmons.

A picture was also made of the group of students who had Master's degrees from Universities, and fifty of the 132 mentioned above indicated that they held such degrees.

More than 100 students were in the group that gathered as students who had held positions of honor in their high school graduating classes.

Son of Local Residents Made Regional Consultant Of Joint Commission

Dr. Joseph Roemer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Roemer, who reside on Fourteenth street has accepted an appointment as regional consultant for the Joint Commission on the Emergency in Education.

Dr. Roemer, who is one of the outstanding educational leaders of the South, is director of instruction in the junior college and demonstration school of George Peabody College for Teachers at Nashville.

It is the purpose of the Joint Commission to carry on an intensive investigation of the schools of the United States during the national financial situation.

The commission, which is a co-operative undertaking between the National Educational Association and the Department of Superintendence in America, is headed by Dr. John K. Norton of Columbia University.

The appointment of Dr. Roemer to this position is a high compliment to this Bowling Green boy who has been so remarkably successful in his chosen field.

B. G. B. U. Notes

Robert D. Munstard has accepted a position with the Hemmingway Motor Company of Andrew, S. C.

Mr. Uncas Peacock left Bowling Green last Saturday for Ashland, Ky. where he has accepted a secretarial position with the Kentucky Marchants Association of that city.

The organization of the Alpha Chapter of the Alpha Sigma fraternity has been announced at the Business University. Details of the organization will be announced later.

Mr. R. J. Meany, of the Accounting Department of the Business University delivered an address before the Rotary Club at Auburn on Wednesday on the subject of "Taxation."

The Vice President of the Business University, Mr. J. Murray Hill, and his family went to Sheffield, Ala. Sunday and on Monday Mr. Hill delivered an address before an inter-city meeting of Rotary Clubs held in Sheffield while Mrs. Hill and the children visited many points of interest around Muscle Shoals.

A rather unusual program was held at the Business University on Wednesday morning when Mrs. May Henderson gave a shorthand program. It consisted of students ranging from those who entered the shorthand department the day before to those who are able to write at a high rate of speed. The surprising feature of the whole event was the fact that every student did better work than he had ever done in the classroom. Miss Henderson was assisted by Mrs. Weldy, Mrs. Harris, and Miss Stout.

A definite time has been agreed upon for the annual debate between the Corecos and the Big 4's. The twenty-fifth contest will take place on the evening of April 24 at the Business Hall of the University. The subject for debate is "Resolved That More Than Fifty Percent of the Local and State Revenues of Kentucky Shall Be Derived From Tangible Property." The affirmative team, representing the Big Four, is composed of Denny Redd, Glen Elkenberry, and Edgar Dortch with Thomas Falor as alternative. Ruby Jones, Jean Hillard and Marion Wynn, with Wilton Thomas as alternative, will carry the negative banner for the Corecos.

On Friday, March 31, the Coreco Debating Society held a short snappy meeting in Chapel Hall at 7:00 o'clock. After the short business meeting, Mr. Patterson took charge of the yells and songs. It seems as though the Corecos are very musically inclined this year and some day in the very near future they are going to surprise the Big Fours with their talents and abilities.

The regular meetings of the Coreco Debating Society will be held from now on Wednesday evenings instead of Friday evenings.

RAYNOR LEHR AND COMPANY TO COME TO CITY THEATRE

After two weeks of phenomenal business at the Princess Theatre, Nashville, Raynor Lehr and his musical comedy company will play a two day engagement at the Capitol Theatre opening tomorrow.

This is the company that holds the world's record for long musical comedy run, having played at the Broadway Theatre, Columbus, Ohio for two years and two weeks consecutively. The manager of the Capitol Theatre has been very fortunate in securing this company for two days engagement, and it is needless to say that the theatre going public of Bowling Green will be given a real treat in the musical comedy line.

Mr. Lehr, a real artist, is at the head of his own company of thirty-five and comes here recommended as one of the best musical comedy organizations of the present day. They will offer a new show each day during their stay here, each

I really had the nicest time. They had music too, and you imagine, Madge, as I entered the room I heard some terrible noise coming from over in the corner, and I looked over there and whom do you suppose I saw? Jack Nowell! and he was singing. Imagine that, Madge, and I never knew that he was able to carry a tune. Sarcasm! Why, of course not, Madge, I was greeted at the door by the Hostess and Sponsor of the club, Mrs. John Harris. Can you beat it, Madge, she even brought her husband. Well! who do you suppose was playing bridge at the next table? I know you couldn't guess in a million years. Who, of course not! Give you a hint, well, it was an accounting teacher, I believe from the school here. No-o-o-o, not Mr. Meany. I never dreamed that he was able to play. No! not him! Guess again. It was Mr. O. C. Williams. Yes-s-s, him and I imagined him to be a wonderful player—now didn't you? Well, he didn't even progress or leave his table all that evening. Of course! His wife was there too. And to think that he was even honored by none other than Mrs. Bettie Bennett. She gave him her luncheon to eat. No, he didn't even pass the plate around or offered anyone a bite. I hope he gets so fat he won't be able to climb the steps here in school."

"The room was divided and on one side auction bridge was played and on the other side contract bridge was played. Thomas Falor won first prize in auction and Mr. C. C. Steed got the second prize. Little Muriel Arledge walked home with the 'booby' prize. Now, of course, I could have won a prize too-o-o-o, but my partners weren't very good players, Madge, and of course I couldn't choose who I wanted to play with."

"Elizabeth Eaton won first prize on the contract side. You know her! She sits near you in Junior Business Training Class and Sarah Porter Farnsworth got second prize. Mrs. Russell Masters had to be 'booby.' You see, Madge, we had to have a 'booby' on that side to balance the 'booby' on the auction side. Do you remember Alice Virginia Stout? Yes-s-s. She does! of course she does! Her little sister Laura Wood Stout won the door prize. What luck! Her number was 31 and I held number 13. Do you imagine, that they could have read the number backwards, or vice versa?"

"Oh-h-h—about 10:00 p. m. a Madam Schulfoni walked in the room to tell fortunes. I had mine told, Madge, for I had to find out who was beating my time with Jim. I had to pay a dime, for I didn't have a lucky card that was given away in chapel Friday morning. She had a crystal and snakes—oh-h-h, they climbed all around her. She had one of these Hindu men as a doorkeeper and he was handsome. Seems to me he looked a little like Ralph Smith only he was "dyed up" in some brownish color. Yes! Ralph was there! With who? Why Margaret Minton Smith, of course. Well, for goodness sakes!

There goes the bell and I must hurry to my class. Wait for me after class, Madge, I've more to tell you."

So Unusual

Seashore Lady: Going home so soon, Mrs. Svensson?

"Yes, I can't rest any longer."

"What is the matter?"

"Whenever I write to my husband for money he sends it by return mail."—Vart Hem, Stockholm.

Just Wadin' Depth

"Honey, I'm knee-deep in love with you."

"All right, I'll put you on my wading list."—Tid-Bits.

Even the Kisses

Jean: It's too bad about Mary and Harry. I thought they were going to be happy on bread and cheese and kisses.

Jane: So they were, but Harry got into the habit of getting them all down town.—Farm Journal.

Unlucky

"Waiter, I ordered a dozen oysters and you brought only eleven."

"I thought you didn't want to sit thirteen at a table, sir." — Lustige Kolner Zeitung, Cologne.
